

Curb Speculation In U.S. Coins! Emphatic Warning By Congressional Committee

"The bubble of wild speculation in ordinary coins at ever-increasing prices is expected to break, with large losses to speculators"; this is the prediction made by the House Monetary Affairs Subcommittee in its freshly released hearings report.

The driving force behind it all: Dynamic and competent Congressman Dante B. Fascell (D-Florida), Chairman of the Subcommittee, who in the words of his colleagues is a "man who gets things done." Best known for his often non-partisan and no-nonsense approach to current problems, Congressman Fascell has in recent months delved into all facets of the silver crisis and coin shortage.

The House Monetary Group in its conclusion urges: "Congress expressly to authorize and direct the Treasury to so limit withdrawals of silver from its stocks as best to preserve its supply pending Congressional action on coin alloys." Reworded, the Committee urges the Treasury to curb silver certificate redemptions until Congress can pass legislation to control the disposal of U. S. Treasury held silver — the world's largest source of supply for silver bullion.

The findings of the House Monetary Affairs Subcommittee are in essence directed to the House Banking and Currency Committee; it is the latter which could initiate drastic legislation to solve the silver and coin crisis. The Subcommittee is part of the Government Operations Committee and recommends, not initiates legislation. In this particular instance, at stake is the investigation of the U. S. Treasury's operations, and whether this Federal Agency has acquitted itself of its task properly and economically.

The Subcommittee has also urged the Treasury to make its long-awaited silver-coin study available as soon as possible. There is growing suspicion Congress is becoming impatient with the Treasury Department for stalling the release of its silver-coin study initially slated for publication on February 1.

The release of this "study" now appears scheduled for April or conceivably beginning of May; the study was initiated in the Summer of 1964.

According to the Subcommittee, the following elements should be primarily considered by the U. S. Treasury: (1) "The effects coin content changes will have on the efficiency and economy of coin-producing operations, including preparing for the period in which new-content coins will be put into circulation.

(2) "Whether stockpiling of, hoarding of, exporting of, or speculation in silver needs to be prohibited or regulated in the interest of conserving the Treasury's silver stock.

(3) "The manifold interests, public and private, which can be expected to be affected by changes in the silver content of coins."

In all, the Subcommittee reached some 23 important point-by-point conclusions listed in the hearings report of which excerpts are reprinted here: 1. Coin production under the Treasury's crash program is on schedule: 4.3 billion coins were produced in fiscal year 1964. Production in fiscal year 1965 will almost double that figure. The rate of yearly production is planned to be exceeding nine billion pieces by June 30, 1965.

2. Mint coin operations are on an around-the-clock basis, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. While this is not an economical way to operate, it produces coins in great quantities. If necessary, production can be more than doubled if sufficient funds are made available, so that close to 20 billion coins per year (about 42 percent of the estimated number of coins now in existence) could be produced.

3. The former drastic shortage in pennies has been alleviated, and perhaps met. There has been marked improvements in nickel production, and some in dimes and quarters. Further improvement in nickel and subsidiary coinage is planned.

4. The overall situation of the coin shortage is improving. The Kennedy halves are an exception, not so much because inadequate quantities have been produced, but because millions of people treat them as mementos and thus keep them out of circulation.

5. Contemporaneously with the Mint's increasing production to reduce the coin shortage, other efforts, mainly by the banking industry, and notably by the American Bankers Association, were directed toward bringing existing coins back into circulation, particularly from "piggy banks."

6. Some large public utilities and the vending machine operating industry annually receive coin in the conduct of their businesses in amount which at times have exceeded the number produced by the Mint, but no concerted effort has been made by the Treasury Department or the Federal Reserve Board to encourage them to so deposit their coin that delivery is made to Federal Reserve banks for redistribution to commercial banks on a fair and equitable basis.

7. The normal business and population growth factors which the Mint largely relied on in planning its multimillion dollar coin production operations have proven to be inadequate standards for measuring coin needs.

8. There have been slight increases in the number of coins returned to Federal Reserve banks as excess to their needs. Such flowbacks of coin formerly were valid guides in the measurement of coin demands.

9. Much coin circulates outside the banking system among merchants and businessmen. Neither the Treasury Department nor the Federal Reserve Board can measure or estimate the amount of coin in such circulation, nor have they made any studies or surveys designed to supply that information. The same applies with regard to the coin holdings of commercial banks. Nor have they made attempts to measure the amount of coin held out of circulation by coin dealers, speculators, and hoarders, or melted down or exported. In the absence of creditable data of such holdings, flowback is not a reliable gauge on the coin shortage, and there is no way of forecasting when the Mint's production need lessen to avert costly overproduction.

10. Even scientifically conducted surveys could only estimate the extent of such holdings, except that the Federal Reserve Board could require member banks to report their actual coin inventories.

11. The Federal Reserve System believes that under current conditions any estimates of future coin needs are guesses. At the same time it urges continuance of the Mint's accelerated coin production program.

12. The Federal Reserve Board's principal contribution to alleviating the coin shortage has been the performance of its obligation of distributing coin from the Mint to member banks. Other contributions have generally been on an

Perspective On Czechoslovakian Coinage

A Numismatic Outline 1922-1965

By Christian F. Verbeke, F.R.N.S.

ALL the silver and minor coinage of a country, by type and or date since 1923, complete for less than $100? Yes, it can be done, and Czechoslovakia's coinage is an excellent example of what a beginner collector can accomplish on a small budget.

For a new coinage or proof set issue to be absorbed by collectors' demand in a matter of hours or days has become a common occurrence in recent years. Canadian, or other Commonwealth issues, and selected foreign material, even of very recent vintage, have become much coveted collectors' attributes.

The ensuing stiff competition between dealers and collectors-investors for choice material has therefore been sharply accentuated; one faction outwitting the other, sometimes by initiatives which border on the ridicule, i.e. costly long-distance plane trips, waiting in line at mints through the hours of the night in an attempt to "hit" the right timing for postal delivery e.g. Canada 1965.

This type of feverish activity no doubt takes away much of the pleasures of coin collecting and often leads to outright disappointment or bitterness. One way of avoiding the "race" is of course to turn to coins of countries which at present lack popularity or to coins which are still available from their issuing institutions.

One such situation is Czechoslovakia, the majority of coins issued by this country are still available at the source, at prices often a fraction of U. S. lists or catalogues. An institution called ARTIA in Prague handles the exclusive export of coins, and in its words is a "foreign trade corporation for the import and export of cultural commodities."

History Outline

Czechoslovakia's existence is a direct exponent of Bohemian history and its people's resistance to the German, Austrian and Magyar oppressions over the centuries.

Bohemia was ruled by the House of Luxembourg and subsequently by the Hapsburgs. Centuries of awakening nationalism and desire for independence resulted in the creation of the Czechoslovak republic in 1918 under the presidency of Thomas Masaryk. Several silver crowns commemorate the latter and related events, viz., the 10 Korun, 1928 Independence (Y 11); 20 Korun 1937 Masaryk's death (Y 14). In addition numerous commemorative gold ducats celebrate Independence.

The infamous Munich Pact of 1938 once more divided Czechoslovakia and resulted in the "Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia." The liberation by Russian and U. S. forces in 1945 restored Czechoslovakia to its pre-Munich status (minus Ruthenia, relinquished to the USSR).

wald ended in 1948 by a bloodless coup d'etat and resulted in total Communist control in force since. The Communist theme is, however, little or not present on Czechoslovakia's coinage, by the notable exception of the 50 and 100 Korun silver crowns commemorating the 70th Birthday of Josef Stalin in 1949 (Y 45, 46).

The 6th Centennial of the University of Prague was commemorated by the 100 Korun (crown) of 1948 (Y 42). The latter institution was created under the House of Luxembourg.

The 9th Century apostles of the Slavs, the brothers Cyril and Methodius, are brilliantly commemorated on the 20 Korun silver crown of 1941 (YS 27).

Predominant of course are the themes of Independence, the liberation from the Nazis and the Slovak uprising.

As surprising as it may seem, most of these commemorative coins are still available from ARTIA, practically at issuance price. As far as can be ascertained, these coins are not restrikes or predated. An interesting communication was recently received by the author clarifying the subject of restrikes; in an amiable letter addressed to him, ARTIA's Export Manager, Mr. Z. Prokop wrote: "Information regarding restrikes or pre-dated coins is (inaccurate and unfounded). The government regulations as per the Czechoslovak Coinage Act do not permit to restrike or predate any coins. The coins are (struck) according to the official announcement of the Ministry of Finance and any deviations from that rule would be against the law. The year of mintage marked on the coins corresponds to the year in which the respective coin is (struck) for the needs of flux (circulation) of money."

The most important point, however, relates to the commemorative silver coinage and elucidates all doubt which collectors may have, when Mr. Prokop states: "As regards to commemorative coins, the stamping tools (dies) are destroyed in the presence of the official committee immediately after the mintage has been finished." The latter statements are confirmed by the Issue Department of the State Bank of Czechoslovakia.

The statistical tabulation of coins available from ARTIA shows that in effect some 90 percent of all Czechoslovakia coinage issued can still be acquired directly at the origin by the exception of gold ducats. In fact the complete collection is sold for approximately $55 including freight and insurance according to recent bulletins. The Yeoman equivalent catalog numbers refer to the 6th edition of Whitman's Catalog of Modern World Coins.

A typical transaction requires approximately 2 months to be completed and requires payment by certified check. It has been the policy of ARTIA not to accept any orders under $50, however.

Some U. S. dealers report increasing interest in Czechoslovakian coinage by collectors, the latter was confirmed by Prague sources, although no specific figures were released. The assurance that no restrikes are being offered, however, could prove an added incentive for coin collectors expanding into the foreign field.

It has also been announced by ARTIA that in May 1965 there will be issued a book entitled "The Mint at Kremnica"; relatively little is known about the Czechoslovakian Mint's activities since 1940 and this book should shed considerable light on this institution's coinage operations during the past three decades. According to ARTIA, the book "will feature the foundations and development of this 630 years old Mint, as well as all the coins, medals and ducats minted there. The book is printed in Czech language with partial translation in English."

ARTIA sends out price lists by request; in this particular instance the prices have been omitted from the tabulation because they are subject to change, furthermore supplies may become exhausted. Enquiries by interested parties may be addressed to:

The unit of Czechoslovakian currency is the crown divided into 100 hellers. The crown is quoted at U. S. $0.14 subject to variations according to Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company's foreign exchange quotations.

ARTIA points out in its coinage catalogue that all specimens "will be delivered in perfect condition, yet some of them (coins prior to 5/31/1953) were in circulation. The author has had an opportunity to examine several shipments of these coins and has found most all silver crowns (including early dates) to be in strict uncirculated condition with the usual amount of marks generally encountered. Some of the minor coins in bronze, zinc and aluminum do indeed show traces of circulation for dates prior to 1953.

To our best knowledge all orders for Mexican Proof Sets are being temporarily impounded by the Mexican Government. They will either be processed for the Proof Sets, if any are made, or will be returned to the sender if not.

We have learned this week that the Mexican Government has reduced the charge against the parties involved to a bailable offense.

Full coverage will be given this subject as soon as the situation, which changes from day to day is resolved completely.

Warning

individual basis by the Federal Reserve banks.

13. The bubble of wild speculation in ordinary coins at ever-increasing prices is expected to break, with large losses to speculators.

14. The Treasury's stock of silver is fast declining. At present rates of use for coinage and redemption of U. S. silver certificates, the supply estimatedly will last only three or four years.

15. Because of the short supply of silver, the Treasury has had under study and tested various coin alloys as possible substitutes for all or part of the silver content of coins.

16. The Treasury is obliged to report to Congress its recommendations in regard to coin alloy in April, 1965. The problem of whether or not the silver content of coins will be reduced has been resolved. How much silver should be removed, and what alloys or metals should be used will be disclosed in the Treasury's report and recommendations.

17. Among the numerous private interests likely to be affected economically or otherwise by change in coin content are the silver producers, silver users, vending machine operators, banks, retail merchants, transit authorities, and telephone companies.

18. Although the Treasury has been faced with a diminishing stock of silver for some time, it has made no efforts to curtail drains on the supply.

19. The Treasury regards persons who redeem silver certificates as absolutely entitled to receive its silver in all events.

20. No end-use information need be furnished to the Treasury, so that the purpose for which silver is withdrawn by purchasers — whether for use, export, hoarding, or speculation — is not known; nor are destinations or ownership required to be disclosed.

21. In 1964, the United States, for the first time, became a net exporter of silver. Exports tripled those of 1963, and were 1 1/2 times our domestic production. There are no export controls on silver, except on shipments to Communist-bloc countries.

22. Sizeable but unmeasurable quantities are withdrawn for speculation on silver futures.

23. Since 1959 industrial consumption of silver has increased about 10 per cent, coinage consumption 500 per cent, and exports 1,000 per cent.

It is unquestionable. Chairman Fawcett has touched on the heart of the problem when his Subcommittee report concludes: "(The) Treasury's attitude that (silver) redemptions must go forward unchecked, seems unrealistic.

500 OUT OF MILLIONS!

That's the total number of subscribers we will accept to our SPECIAL COIN INVESTMENT ADVISORY SERVICE —

Why a limit of 500? Because we recommend just one coin or set of coins per report as a rule, and too many people buying the same coins at the same time can run up the price, while too many people selling the same coins at the same time can depress the price. THIS SERVICE GIVES YOU . . .

FOUR TYPES OF REPORTS

- Buying Recommendations
- Selling Recommendations
- Special Reports
- Items of Interest Reports

All coins are covered — U. S., Canadian, and Foreign.

ALL Reports are 100% OBJECTIVE — we have no coins to push and we have no tie-ins with anyone. Our only aim is for you to make money by bringing to your attention what we feel are the BEST COINS TO INVEST IN.

For just $1.00 we'll send you, via First Class Mail, a minimum of five previous issues, containing at least one each of the four different kinds, plus the latest available report.

REMEMBER, of the millions of coin collectors and investors, ONLY 500 WILL EVER BECOME SUBSCRIBERS TO THIS ADVISORY SERVICE

Monetary Forgeries Studied

FIRST INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS FOR THE STUDY AND PROTECTION AGAINST MONETARY FORGERIES
Paris, June 3-5, 1965

AS the number of coin collectors and fanciers increases, there is a parallel development in the more or less underworld market of false coins.

This clandestine trade has developed mainly during the past ten years in the countries where legislation is lenient toward forgers.

To let such a traffic become more intense under almost safe conditions would almost certainly end up causing a growing number of harmful consequences, as a result of constant swindling, and placing the responsibility squarely on the aggregate shoulders of professional numismatists. Naturally, the numerous collectors drawn by the interest brought about by numismatics, would automatically shy away from this type of collecting.

Therefore, it is Numismatics itself as a whole which is concerned and confronted with serious danger.

This danger affects primarily, at the present time, the trade in modern gold coins, namely coins struck approximately after 1800.

Actually, the technical means which Science makes available to forgers enable them to create coinages which, although actually always detectable, constitutes dangerous forgeries, likely to betray the good faith of fanciers. On the other hand, this type of traffic permits a commerce which is more important, therefore more profitable than that of false ancient currencies, which depended upon artisan's skills and geographically localized.

Without wishing to detract so much from the fight it has been waging since its foundation against forgeries of ancient currencies, the International Association of Professional Numismatists has decided to step up its drive against forgers by organizing an "International Congress for the Study and Protection against Monetary Forgeries."

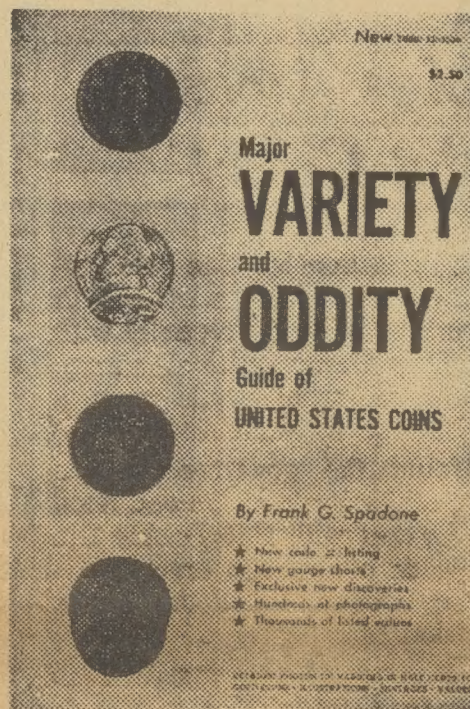

This Congress has been organized following a long preliminary investigation with a significant number of numismatic companies world wide representing approximately the entirety of coin lovers.

The particularly positive results of this investigation have evinced the interest for such a "conclave", and its success must constitute a determining factor for all those who are interested in Numismatics, either immediately or remotely, regardless of who they are, lovers, scientists, experts or dealers. If this Congress has addressed itself by itself by principle to numismatic companies in order to encompass the entirety of the persons concerned; all the persons attending the meetings will be able to participate in debates and discussions and to voice their viewpoints.

This Congress will comprise three working meetings: following a categoric definition against forgers, a juridical study of the legal texts regulating forgeries will be followed by an account by each of the countries represented. Prominent personalities of different nationality have already notified their acceptance to participate in our work.

From this study should emerge a body of specifically adapted determinations which would serve as the foundation for a general international system.

The terminological definitions will be the subject of a special study, with differentiation between forgeries and second mintings or commemorative mintings issuing from Official Monetary Institutes.

Finally, the various technical problems concerning the manufacturing methods of forgers will be largely reviewed.

In order to bring to a close the work of the Congress, various motions will be proposed to the Meeting in order to lay the groundwork for a general and consistent policy against meetings will take place from June 3 to 5, 1965, in Paris, in the Maison Internationale des Chemins de Fer, 14, rue Jean-Rey, 15th, that various receptions, cocktails, banquets and excursions are scheduled, in addition to the sessions.

In addition, an exhibit within the purlieus of Hotel de la Monnaie will enable the uninformed public to better understand the significance of the problem and our action.

The membership applications will be received at the Secretariat of A.I.N.P., 7, rue Drouot in Paris.

We are looking forward to attendance by each Numismatic Association, each numismatist, which will prove not only the vitality of Numismatics throughout the world, but also the absolute strictness and the total guarantee striven for by the objectivity of all Numismatists.

Space City Averages:

HOW THEY ARE OBTAINED

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers.

We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series.

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the series.

It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and extremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The United States Coin Exchange transactions.

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis.

The high and low for 1964 is also shown.

MARKET SUMMARY

March 31, 1965

By Russell Brown

THIS week saw a new high for Lincoln cents and continued upward action by Franklin half dollars. Proof sets reversed their downward trend and scored a number of small gains.

More of the Lincolns declined than advanced but several rolls, led by the 1942-S with a gain of five dollars, more than offset the small losses by the rest of the series. The small dates were mixed with the P losing seven dollars while the D, experiencing unusual demand, gained seventy five cents.

Franklin half dollars seemed to have much more than their share of the market's buying interest and the dates from 1952 through 1957 scored a wave of gains. Heavy bidding for the 1950-P, 1952-S, 1953-P and the 1953-S caused all four rolls to rise five dollars or more. Advances outnumbered declines sixteen to one in the series with the only loss being two dollars by the 1951-D.

Proof sets, after last week's apparent disinterest, came back strong with a number of fair gains in the early fifties. An abnormal amount of buying also seems to be taking place in the 1964 sets with a resultant rise in price. In fact, the bidding for the '64 set is so strong that we are inclined to wonder whether there might not be a "push" afoot.

Washington quarters continue to follow the Franklins in volume with seven issues scoring gains for the week while only two declined. All movements in the series were small. And most of the buying was in very small lots. The 1955-D, after a slow March, seems to be picking up some new admirers.

Jefferson nickels were mixed with the 1938-D and 1950-P losing five and ten dollars respectively while the 1950-D regained five dollars toward its previous high. All other price changes were extremely minor. Noted were many requests for gem rolls at premium prices from the "black years," 1955-1959. Care must be exercised in buying these dates for the carbon content is high in the Philly issues and the "darkies" which the unsuspecting purchaser can buy cheaply are not worth the outlay.

Dimes continued their losing ways but the downward trend was much less noticeable than last week. Price movement was very slight but there is still a strong selling trend that has not showed sign of letup.

In the Canadian market, the older proof like sets continue to go up while the newer sets come tumbling down. This week, all sets from 1961 to date lost three to five percent each while the 1956 and 1957 sets reached new highs. The 1965 sets are coming out in large numbers and the price continues to drop toward the issuance value of four dollars. Many speculators who bought heavily in these sets are dumping as fast as they receive delivery and the sets will not be able to go up in price until this first wave is assimilated by the market.

All was quiet on the circulated front as scattered issues rose slightly in value. Few declines were spotted.

The Market Opinion

We received a letter the other day concerning the advisability of putting quotes on roll sets of circulated Franklin halves in the market pages. The writer felt that this series is certainly worthy of as much coverage as nickels or dimes.

A little research showed that the roll set sells for between $640 and $660 in average circulated and has a face value of $370. But one factor is present in this set which makes carrying it rather unnecessary. That factor is the extremely small number of key rolls in the series. As a matter of fact, if you take out only six rolls, everything else is selling for within ten percent of face. If, therefore, you keep up with the price of the six key rolls, you can quote the roll set price with ease.

We have this same situation with the Roosevelt dime circulated roll set. And as a result, we could very well strike that set's coverage without much loss to our readers.

We note with interest the drop in the price of gold double eagles in the last two weeks. They are now back to where they were two months ago, after gaining then losing two dollars per coin. Now might well be a good time to pick up several of these beauties before the price goes up again.

1957 and 1958 CANADIAN BU NICKELS

Compare Canadian BU Nickel Rolls

DATE	Mintage In Millions	Price
1953	17	240.00
1954	7	525.00
1955	5	255.00
1956	9	155.00
1957	7	170.00
1958	7	160.00

- The 1957 and 1958 nickels are lower in mintage than the 1953 nickels which are much higher in price.
- The 1957 and 1958 nickels at this moment according to their mintages have the price potential of $525.00 per roll. (The 1954 nickel roll with the same mintage of 7 Million sells for $525.00)
- The 1957 and 1958 nickels are extremely common in circulated condition. We estimate better than 98% of each date is in circulation which would leave only 2% or 140,000 coins of each in Uncirculated condition.
- The 1957 and 1958 nickels are extremely scarce in Uncirculated condition and the demand is much greater than the available supply.
- The 1957 and 1958 nickels along with the 1954 nickels has been the key dates in the first Queen Elizabeth series and this series has been completed in 1964. (A new design with a more mature portrait of Queen Elizabeth is being minted in 1965). When the U.S. Franklin Half Dollar series was completed in 1963 the 1955 Franklin Half Dollar soared from $20.00 per roll to its present price of $225.00 per roll.

The 1957 and 1958 nickels in our opinion will sell for at least $550.00 and $500.00 per roll within two years, and $1100.00 and $1000.00 per roll in the next 4 years. We offer CHOICE Brilliant Uncirculated rolls of 1957 Canadian nickels at $170.00 per roll and choice Brilliant Uncirculated rolls of 1958 Canadian nickels at $160.00 per roll. All rolls shipped in Tomkin plastic tubes (postpaid and insured). 5 day return if you are not completely satisfied.

Five Reasons Why

(1) After a period of 1 1/2 years I am now in mail order for myself after being employed by a well known firm as Adv. Manager. I feel now I am ready to really give my old customers a real service and my new customers the best possible service available. (2) One day service will be the only way my business is done. Mail once every day, more for rush orders. (3) If the merchandise is not in my store or in stock at that time I will not advertise it. (4) Prices will be low as the merchandise can be sold and still make everybody happy. Please compare them elsewhere before you buy. My grading as you will find out will be strict B&D. (5) Not only do we cater to the collector, but also the investor as we believe that all merchandise we advertise will be wanted by both.
